November Program - Chef Mark Drabich, Metropolitan Seafood

Volume 16 Issue 1

January 2016

Mark Drabich has been in the seafood business for well over 27 years. His first experience as a fishmonger was at the age of 15 in a neighborhood fish market and there began his love affair with mongering.

Mark worked his way through school holding a fillet knife and after graduation he worked a brief two year stint in the corporate world. Fortunately For Mark and all us in Hunterdon County, Mark found his way back to his passion and opened his first Metropolitan Seafood in 1988 with his lovely wife Denise.

Mark and his Metropolitan Seafood & Gourmet store has been featured on The Cooking Channel and in the New York Times as well as being the "go to" Fishmonger in a Wall Street Journal video recently aired about fish sustainability.

Mark says he has been blessed with such wonderful friends and many clients over the years who have allowed him to select only the finest seafood for his store.

Mark writes and distributes a newsletter to more than 8000 recipients each week. His newsletter includes recipes he created, which he hopes will help his clients to become more comfortable with the treasures of the ocean and allow them to create wonderful masterpieces in their own home and for their loved ones.
